

University of Maryland School of Public Policy

Faculty Appointment in Public Budgeting and Financial Management (rank open)

The School of Public Policy, University of Maryland, College Park, is seeking to fill a faculty position (rank open) in public budgeting and financial management. The university, which has the only accredited Masters in Public Policy (MPP) program at a major research university inside the Washington Beltway, looks to build on its existing strength in public finance. Current public budgeting and financial management faculty include internationally recognized scholars and practitioners, working at the intersection of domestic and global policy issues. These include former high-level state and national budget officials, the co-editor of the major budgeting journal in the U.S., and the world's leading academic expert in public budgeting.

Candidates must qualify to join the School's faculty as active teachers and scholars. They should possess a terminal degree, such as a Ph.D. or its equivalent, in a relevant discipline, including Public Policy, Public Administration, Economics, or Political Science. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research focuses on state and local public finance issues. Expertise in performance management and/or performance budgeting would be highly desirable. Applicants who have recently received a Ph.D. (or expect to earn the degree before the start of the 2012-13 academic year) or who are already established scholars are encouraged to apply. Appointments are anticipated to begin in August 2012. Salary is competitive.

The Maryland School of Public Policy is a top-ranked graduate school of public policy and management with a faculty of scholars and distinguished practitioners. The School offers a Master of Public Policy degree (primarily for pre-career students), and a Masters of Public Management degree (primarily for mid-career students). The PhD program was recently rated amongst the top ten nationally by the National Research Council. The School also offers executive (degree and non-degree) programs for career executives in federal, state, and international agencies. The University of Maryland is located inside the Washington Beltway, within thirty minutes of federal agencies, key international associations, and many non-profit and private policy-research organizations.

Application materials should include a letter of interest describing the candidate's qualifications, a curriculum vitae with contact information for at least three references, a recent publication or writing sample, and a summary of teaching experience. Position is open until filled, but application review will begin November 1, 2011.

To apply, visit <http://jobs.umd.edu>, locate the position announcement and apply online. Application materials sent outside of the online system will not be accepted. Applicants may also visit www.publicpolicy.umd.edu/employment/faculty-jobs for more information. Questions may be addressed to publicfinancesearch@umd.edu.

As an Affirmative Action Equal Opportunity Employer, the School particularly encourages and welcomes applications from women, minority candidates, and persons with disabilities.

The University of Maryland, College Park, actively subscribes to a policy of equal employment opportunity, and will not discriminate against any employee or applicant because of race, age, gender, color, sexual orientation, physical or mental disability, religion, national origin, or political affiliation. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply.