

Call for Papers, Presentations, and Panels

ABFM

Association for Budgeting and Financial Management

21st Annual Conference
Washington D.C.
September 24-26, 2009
Washington Marriott

The ABFM conference committee invites proposals for panels, papers, and presentations for the 2009 ABFM conference. We especially encourage proposals from local, state and federal practitioners.

Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- *Budget innovation and reform
- *Budget process
- *Budget transparency
- *Budget and financial management challenges
- *Capital and debt management
- *Capital and development financing
- *Education finance
- *Financial information management and technology
- *Financial markets
- *Financial and performance reporting
- *Fiscal and monetary policy
- *Funding healthcare
- *Intergovernmental finance
- *Municipal securities
- *Nonprofit finance
- *Pensions and OPEBs
- *Performance budgeting applications and results oriented budgeting
- *Public accounting and accountability
- *Public funds management
- *Social security finance
- *Budgeting in an age of federal buyouts and stimulus funding

Note that paper presenters are only allowed to present once at the conference, although presenters should consider being discussants and/or chairs of other panels.

For full consideration, please submit proposals by April 17, 2009. Proposals should describe the panel, paper, or presentation and be no more than 500 words. Proposals must include the name of participant(s) or author(s), position/job title, institutional affiliation, address (including email), and phone number. Students should provide their degree program, status (master's level, Ph.D., ABD), and institutional affiliation. Please indicate if you are willing to serve as a chair or discussant on another panel. Proposals may be submitted by email or fax, although email is preferred.

Also, please visit our web site for more information about the conference as it becomes available:
